Newsletters normally are emailed on Monday evenings. World War 2 – 1943

John Thompson Strategic analyst - quotes from his book "Spirit Over Steel"

Dec 12th: Dr Benes, leader of the Czech-government-in-exile is in Moscow to sign treaties of Soviet-Czech friendship.

Essential Reading: Dr Edvard Benes remains a complex figure, and there is some controversy attached to him (including allegations he was a Soviet agent, and he was the author of 'ethnic cleansing' laws that drove ethnic Germans and Hungarians out of Czechoslovakia after the war). He was, however, a statesman and diplomat and the leader of a government-in-exile. A complete library on the Second World War would require a biography of the man and the Oxford Press biography of him (The Life of Edvard Benes, 1884-1948: Czechoslovakia in Peace and War) by Zbynek Zeman and Antonin Klimak admirably suits the bill.

Dec 13th: P-51s escort US bombers all the way to a raid on Kiel in their first escort mission.

Dec 14th: The Baltic Front begins a new offensive near Nevel, and Konev's Front takes Cherkassy. As the 1st Canadian Division continues to claw its way towards Ortona through mud, shellfire, and Fallschirmjäger, Captain Paul Triquet of the Royal 22e "Van Doos" rallies the remaining 17 members of his company in an assault on Casa Berardi and leads them to the objective, holding on under heavy shell fire and against repeated counter-attacks until relieved. His cheerful disregard for danger and success against impossible odds earned him the Victoria Cross.

Essential Reading: Wherever they were encountered, German Fallschirmjager were hard-fighting elite troops with a high élan; and without the odium so often earned by the Waffen SS. They have not "attracted the same amount of interest that either the Waffen SS or the Panzer troops have garnered either. A library hoping to mend this fault would do well to acquire Christopher Ailsby's Hitler's Sky Warriors: German Paratroops in Action, 1939-45. It is a slender book but is probably the best that is currently available.

Dec 15th: American force land on a small island off New Britain. 5th Army resumes its offensive towards Monte Lungo and San Pietro.

Dec 17th: 5th Army makes progress on Monte Sammucro and in San Pietro.

Dec 18th: The contest for San Pietro continues hot and strong, but increasingly goes the 5th Army's way.
